

Symposium Radboud Teachers Academy on 'Teaching for Creativity'

Creativity is currently viewed as one of the most important "skills" for all students to develop. The teaching of creativity is central to the Research Program of Radboud Teachers Academy.

On 10 November 2017, the Radboud Teachers Academy will be hosting an international symposium on 'Teaching for Creativity' in Nijmegen, the Netherlands. The purpose is to connect, share and learn about creativity teaching with peers across disciplines.

The central question will be: How can students' creativity be cultivated in (secondary) education? We warmly invite interested researchers to participate!

The program

- 8.45 Coffee/Tea
- 9.15 Welcome by Prof. Paulien Meijer, scientific director of Radboud Teachers Academy
- 9.30 Keynote by Dr. Ronald Beghetto (University of Connecticut) + interaction with participants
- 11.00 Coffee/Tea
- 11.20 Pitches by various experts*
- 12.00 Lunch
- 13.00 Workshops and creative sessions*
- 16.30 Plenary final; the way forward
- 17.00 Informal meeting, drinks and tapas

The working language for the symposium will be English.

Where

The symposium will take place at*: Radboud University Nijmegen,
Erasmus building,
Erasmusplein 1, 6525 HT Nijmegen.

Registration

All participants (both presenting and not presenting) must register for the symposium before September 8th 2017. To register click here.

Costs

To cover costs of food and drinks, the participation fee has been set at EUR 30. After registering, you will receive an email with payment instructions within 2 working days.

*More details will be released around October 1st.

Contact

Radboud Teachers Academy
Erasmus building, 20th floor.
Erasmusplein 1, 6525 HT Nijmegen.
+31-243615572